

$25,000 TO CHARITY BY MRS. MANDERSON

Remainder of Estate of Widow of Former Senator Goes Mostly to Relatives.

COUSINS ARE EXECUTORS

Rebekah S. Manderson, widow of the late General Charles F. Manderson and prominent Omaha woman, who died last Tuesday, left an estate valued at $120,000, of which $25,000 goes to charity, according to the will filed for probate with the clerk of the county court. Charles H. Marley and Elizabeth H. Black, cousins, are named as executors. The will was made on May 5, 1913.

To Mr. Marley and Miss Black are bequeathed the household goods, books, pictures, silverware, jewelry, personal ornaments, bric a brac, old lace, motor car and the effects in the family home, 510 South Thirty-eighth street.

Stock Yards Stock

One hundred shares of the capital stock of the Union Stock Yards company are bequeathed to the executors, in trust, to pay the incomes and provide for the following dispositions:

The income is to be paid over to Dean H. Brown of Twin Falls, Idaho, a nephew, during the lifetime of Mrs. Manderson's brother, Walter S. Brown, and his wife, Elizabeth Brown, or the survivors of them.

After the death of the survivors of the Browns, the executors or trustees are to transfer forty-nine shares of the stock yards company stock to Dean H. Brown and two shares to Wallace Brown of Ogden, Utah, a nephew, the remaining forty-nine shares to be held in trust and paid to Blanche Brown Bracken of Salt Lake City, a niece, during her lifetime, and at her death to Dean H. Brown, Wallace Brown and Blanche Brown, children of Mrs. Manderson's brother.

To Husband's Brother

To Alfred J. Manderson, the late General Manderson's brother, is bequeathed the sum of $5,000, provision being made that it is inoperative in case Mrs. Manderson (Rebekah S.) survives him.

Laura Manderson of Ogden, Utah, a sister-in-law, in the event that she survives the late General Manderson dies during her lifetime, is left $25,000. This is inoperative if she is survived by Alfred J. Manderson.

The other cash bequests made by Mrs. Manderson are as follows:

Frank M. Evans of Syracuse, N. Y., a nephew, $10,000.

Katherine M. Strawn of Washington, D. C., a niece, $15,000.

Loretta Hancock of Philadelphia, $300.

Ann Fries Pilling, $300.

Manderson Lehr of Albion, Neb., $300.

Mrs. Manderson explains that she makes this bequest "because he bears her husband's name."

Grace Wallace Tuttle, $1,000.

May Wallace, $500.

Dot Wallace, $500.

Charles H. Marley, $3,000.

Elizabeth H. Black, $5,000.

Priority of Payment

The legacies are to have priority of payment in order in which they are made. If any legatee does not survive her the provision made to him or her is to go to the executor, to be distributed as if same had constituted a part of the personal estate.

A $25,000 bequest is made to the executors to be apportioned among such charitable or eleemosynary institutions in Douglas county as they see fit.

It is provided that the residue of the estate shall be held in trust for Elizabeth H. Black for life, under the direction that all rents, issues and incomes as they accrue are to be paid to her. After her death one-third each goes to Charles F. Evans, Frank M. Evans and Katherine M. Strawn.

Seventy thousand dollars is in personal property and $50,000 in real estate.

Judge Crawford Says Kansas Wins Sometimes

The victory of the Kansas football team over the Cornhuskers awakened a reminiscent vein in Judge Crawford of the county court. The Omaha judge a quarter of a century ago was a student at the university in the "bloody" state.

He was a member of the Kansas base ball team in 1891, the first year that a game was ever played with the Nebraska nine. Kansas won. "Oh, yes," remarked Judge Crawford, "Kansas wins once in a while."

A Fearless Physician

Such a physician recently remarked of the wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women is not because it is a stimulant, nor because it is a palliative, but simply because it contains the very elements needed to tone up the female system and strengthen the depleted organism. Of course that is so, otherwise it could not succeed as it has.—Adv.

Over 2 Million Russ Fall in 6 Months

Berlin, Nov. 20.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—According to the Central Identification Office at Kiev, Russia, says the Overseas News Agency, the number of Russian casualties since June 1, 1916, has reached 1,002,621 officers and 2,027,853 men.

Among the officers are one general of brigade, four colonels and four lieutenant colonels in command of regiments.

It is apparent from the recent Russian lists, the Overseas News Agency says, that part of the Russian forces on the Caucasian front have been transported to the European war theater.

TRANSPORTATION INQUIRY OPENS

Railroad Officials and State Commissioners Maneuver to Avoid Appearing First.

NEWLANDS MAKES SPEECH

Washington, Nov. 20.—The first session today of the joint congressional committee investigating the broad subject of transportation, developed into a preliminary meeting at which Chairman Newlands made a general statement of the purposes of the investigation and practically all the prospective witnesses maneuvered to avoid appearing first. Each wanted the other to take the lead because, all said, they wanted to avoid having their plans prejudiced.

The railways were not ready to go on, and the state railway commissioners said they preferred not to be heard until the first week in December.

Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, the chairman, explained that the inquiry would cover a wide field. He said:

"It will relate to every phase of the transportation question, the rail carriers, the river carriers and the ocean carriers, and the perfection of a harmonious system of transportation embracing rail, river and ocean carriers that will meet the demands of interstate, as well as foreign commerce, and it will also be applied to telegraph and telephone lines, express companies and other public utilities."

"It will embrace not only the subject of government control and regulation of these utilities, but also the wisdom and feasibility of government ownership and the comparative worth and efficiency of government regulation and control, as compared with government ownership and operation."

Senator Newlands said that a conclusion will be more quickly arrived at "if we have the sympathetic aid of practical men who for years have been conversant with the practical side of the transportation question, of the economists and publicists, of railway executives and workers, of commercial bodies, farmers and manufacturers and shippers generally."

Referring to government ownership, he said:

"It is a question that must be faced. Other nations far advanced in civilization have adopted the system. Recently, under the stress of war, almost all governments have taken over the railways. It demonstrates that in conditions of great crises when autocratic powers must appeal to the governments all intelligent governments drift toward absolute and complete operation of the roads as the only solution of the question."

"If we pursue the exercise and the study of government regulation wisely, persistently and energetically, we may create such a system of regulation as will meet every requirement both in time of peace and of war and in emergency or crisis. But it seems to be a wise thing for the government to ascertain now the history of the countries that have adopted government ownership and operation of railroads and to watch the experiences of the European countries in this great war in this regard."

"In this connection will come the question of the method of taking over the railroads. Shall it be accomplished by an actual valuation of the railways and a condemnation of them, or shall they be taken over by the easier method of taking over the stocks and bonds at their market value, thus at one step having the national government take the position of stockholder and security holder in these great corporations?"

FOOD CONTROL IN ENGLAND WELCOME

All Classes of People Seem to Take Well to the Idea Being Worked Up.

WORKMEN'S BEER SACRED

London, Nov. 20.—No other government action in Great Britain during the war has commanded such immediate and almost unanimous support as has the decision to control food supplies and prices. Virtually the entire press welcomes the scheme. Almost the only criticism expressed is that the authorities should have taken charge of the nation's food supply long ago.

The difficulties of the handling such a vast and complicated problem in a country unused to paternalistic methods are not underestimated. Arrangements are being made between the Board of Trade and the Board of Agriculture for controlling the prices of stocks. The distribution of the most important commodities, corn, meat and potatoes, is already partly regulated, as also is that of sugar.

Considered for Post

The most probable appointment to the position of food controller is considered to be Sir George Saltmarsh, the government's chief adviser on corn supplies; or Baron Devonport, chairman of the port authority of London.

One of the troublesome features of the situation is how to equalize matters between the rich and the poor. On the theory of "equality of sacrifice for all," which is a popular watchword, the newspapers are making a sensation of luxurious menus in fashionable restaurants and homes.

The limitation of restaurant meals to three courses is to be discussed Wednesday to divide economies. To the casual observer there are no signs of food shortage. The variety and quantity of eatables in the shops and restaurants appears undiminished, but the big markets tell a different story. It still is possible to get a good dinner or lunch in London cheaper than it could be obtained in New York before the war. The poorer housekeepers who buy in small quantities feel the pinch, since the general retail prices average nearly 70 per cent higher.

The government has to deal on the one hand with increased consumption due partly to the better scale of living practiced by a large section of the people getting unusual wages from war work, and on the other hand with decreased imports and decreased home production.

In the meantime "the workman's beer" remains almost sacred. Notice has been given by a small group of members of the House of Commons that they will press for prohibition of the manufacture of alcoholic beverages, but this has excited no popular response.

VIENNA HEARS WORD WILSON FOR PEACE

Rumor American President Intends Talking Action Discussed.

NOT THOUGHT FAVORABLE

London, Nov. 20.—Interest in the announcement that President Wilson intends taking concrete action in behalf of peace, continues unabated, though in many Austrian circles the view is held that the attitude of the entente powers will render Mr. Wilson's good offices futile.

As the matter stands certain governmental circles hold that little can be gained by declaring a readiness to meet the entente on a peace preliminary so long as the entente has failed to indicate that it would be content with much less than shown in the recent speeches made in London.

It is felt by Austrian officials that the acceptance of an invitation for such a conference with the entente holding out for a program which is little short of the total annihilation of the central powers and their allies would be equal to acknowledging that the central powers were ready to secure peace on any terms.

See No Basis for Talk

Washington, Nov. 19.—It is assumed in official circles here, that Austrian dispatches of a move in behalf of peace by President Wilson is based upon some unfounded rumor reaching Vienna. The president has not changed his opinion that any action by him, at the present stage of the European conflict would be futile unless the belligerents indicated that it would be welcome.

BIG THRUST ALONG SOMME IS HALTED

Berlin Critic Says Entente Has Been Unable to Develop Local Gains.

REAL GOAL NOT ATTAINED

Berlin, Nov. 20.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—The military critic of the Overseas News Agency writes:

"The great thrust on the Somme has come to a standstill. Last week the general battle was split into isolated attacks. The small local successes of the enemy could not be developed, and for the most part were nullified by counter attacks. The fact that for several weeks the same villages have been mentioned again and again in the official German reports and those of the entente is the best proof that the general battle on the Somme has come to a standstill, and that the British, as well as the French, are limited to improving their positions. "Although the British won small local successes near Grandcourt and the Germans were again driven from Serre, the coveted heights of Serre remained in German hands after a desperate battle."

"Three fresh army corps were brought up by the British for the great attack of November 13-14, the objective of which was not merely Beaumont-Hamel and Beaucourt, but Bapaume, as is proved by orders that were received. After the failure of the mass thrusts, isolated attacks were continued by the British all through the week. These were without success, and on Saturday the British again made an attack on both sides of the Ancre."

"This new attempt to break through our lines was a failure. On the twelve kilometer front the enemy was repulsed almost everywhere and his insignificant successes at some places required the heaviest sacrifices. Local success at the bend of the Ancre was paid for by the British with losses elsewhere on the front."

"The Butte de Warlencourt, a hill which bars the road to Bapaume, which was captured by the British on November 14, at the expense of enormous sacrifices, was recaptured by the Germans on November 16. A surprise attack was made by the Germans without artillery preparation and the opposing troops fled. Only two non-commissioned officers and seventeen men could be captured. The prisoners bore no arms. They were Australians who were most weary of war and they declared that all the Australian troops on the Somme front were kept up only by the hope of speedy relief."

"Isolated attacks by the French were equally unsuccessful. Near St. Pierre Vaast wood a French attack broke down with heavy losses and near Pressoire little was gained."

FOOD EXPERT PLAN TESTED IN CHICAGO

Volunteers Risk Martyrdom by Trying Out "Economy Menus."

TEST LASTS TWO WEEKS

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Six men and six women employees of the city health department ate their Thanksgiving dinners here today and then gave their solemn words to eat nothing for two weeks, but the scientific diet provided by a public economy commission. They will attempt to demonstrate the theories of the commission that the high cost of living is due in a great degree to the apparent willingness of the public to pay any price demanded for its luxuries and that the public's health as well as its purse would be improved by an intelligent diet.

John Dill Robertson, health commissioner, says he expects to feed the twelve for $20 a week or at a trifle more than 8 cents a meal.

The squad will weigh in at 8:30 tomorrow morning. Their weight will be carefully watched each day of the two weeks. They will be given three carefully prepared meals each day and will be expected to do their regular work; and will be permitted to drink only water between meals.

A big commission merchant, who admitted he had profited by high prices today, attributed the increase to the supine public. "In former years, if a housewife was asked to pay 40 cents a pound for butter," he said, "she revolted and used a cheaper substitute. This year she pays 50 cents."

"It has gotten to be a joke. A seller will offer a lot of butter or eggs at a certain price, feeling that no one will be foolish enough to pay that high, and the first thing he knows his offerings are accepted."

Kaiser's Second Son Will Be Made King of Lithuania

Paris, Nov. 20.—Germany is about to follow up its declaration of Polish independence with a similar announcement regarding Lithuania, according to dispatches from Switzerland to the morning newspapers. The dispatches say that the new state will probably receive Prince Eitel Friedrich, second son of the emperor, as its sovereign and will form a state of the German empire with a similar status to that of Bavaria or Saxony. As in the case of Poland, the dispatches add, a Lithuanian army will be formed to fight under Field Marshal von Hindenburg. It is estimated that Lithuania could raise 150,000 men.

Simple Ceremony To Mark Wilson's Return to Office

Washington, Nov. 20.—President Wilson's second inauguration probably will be comparatively simple. He is known to desire that there should be as little ceremony as possible.

It is accepted as certain by officials that there will be no inaugural ball.

In addition to the president's opposition to elaborate ceremony at his inauguration in 1913, officials point to the recent death of his sister, Mrs. Anne Howe, the fact that March 4 fall on Sunday next year, and the prospect that the European war will still be in progress next March as reasons why the next inaugural exercises will be as simple as possible.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.—Advertisement.
